SUMMARY

Daniel is uncertain about his academic path after the political science course and wants guidance on career options.

KEY CONCERNS

- Uncertainty about career path or possible academic direction after first-year political science course
- Difficulty understanding what makes up a political science major and what paths are available
- Feeling interested in writing, but not sure if it's the right fit for his interests
- Need for clarity on career options in international relations, policy, or writing

ACTION PLAN

- Help Daniel identify potential career paths in government, nonprofits, international affairs, or writing that align with his interests and major
- Connect Daniel with first-year seminar leaders and upper-level political science students for a mentorship program
- Refer Daniel to career services for writing and policy jobs, as well as internships and networking opportunities
- Offer to take on a regular meeting schedule to monitor Daniel's career aspirations and provide feedback on job and internship opportunities

FOLLOW UP PLAN

- Schedule a follow-up meeting in 2 weeks to check if Daniel has settled his career path or if any new opportunities arise
- Suggest attending a career fair or writing conference during the second semester
- Discuss how to write a personal statement or resume based on Daniel's political science education and writing interests
