SUMMARY

Tyler is experiencing academic and social challenges in his first semester of the Classics major, and is concerned about his performance and isolation in the major.

KEY CONCERNS

- Uninteresting academic courses in the major (ancient history, literature)
- Difficulty fitting into the Classics community
- Feeling disconnected from the major
- Uncertainty about academic fit and social isolation

ACTION PLAN

- Recommend attending at least one Classics seminar or discussion group
- Provide options for first-year Classics students to join a social group or academic peer tutoring program
- Encourage Tyler to explore the humanities through non-Classics courses and engage with other disciplines
- Help Tyler reframe his major as a way to explore ancient and modern cultures

FOLLOW UP PLAN

- Check in later this semester to monitor academic performance and identify barriers
- Offer to provide weekly progress updates through email or a meeting schedule
- Encourage Tyler to seek out mentorship from the Classics department or other first-year students in the major
