SUMMARY

Kathleen is deeply invested in academic pursuits in East Asian languages and culture, but still unsure of her career path after graduation.

KEY CONCERNS

- Uncertainty about graduate school or transfer after majoring in East Asian Languages and Literatures
- Difficulty determining suitable career paths in the humanities
- Lack of clarity on available graduate programs and career opportunities
- Impact of intense course load and potential isolation from other students

ACTION PLAN

- Help Kathleen brainstorm potential career paths in fields such as education, language policy, or nonprofit work with Asian Americans
- Discuss potential graduate school programs (e.g., Teacher Education, Linguistics, Human Rights) with a focus on social justice and education
- Refer Kathleen to networking events and job fairs for academic and nonprofit jobs in East Asia and beyond
- Encourage self-reflection and exploration of alternative career paths that align with her passion and intellectual interests

FOLLOW UP PLAN

- Schedule a follow-up meeting after finals to review career plans and graduation plans
- Offer support for writing a personal statement or resume for multiple career paths
- Encourage Kathleen to join a student-led organization focused on social justice and language access
