SUMMARY

Beth is experiencing academic stress and uncertainty about her major and graduate school preparation.

KEY CONCERNS

- Completing coursework in physics and related fields at a high academic level
- Applying to graduate programs in astrophysics and planetary science
- Feeling overwhelmed by complex course content and time commitment
- Uncertainty about fit and preparation for graduate school next year

ACTION PLAN

- Recommend scheduling transition seminars between physics and astronomy courses to understand course structure and concepts
- Suggest attending graduate information sessions for physics and planetary science programs next year
- Provide guidance on applying to graduate programs in astrophysics or planetary science, including application requirements and structure
- Help Beth develop a strong academic plan for the rest of her degree, including course selection and writing skills workshop

FOLLOW UP PLAN

- Schedule a follow-up meeting to review graduate school application materials and strategies
- Offer writing workshop on scientific writing and presentation skills for graduate students
- Encourage Beth to join a graduate student organization or academic networking group for support and advice
