SUMMARY

Joshua is struggling academically despite taking political science classes early in his degree.

KEY CONCERNS

- Unconnected to first-year classes despite majoring in Politics
- Difficulty keeping up with diverse content across different fields
- Feeling disconnected from the intended purpose of the major
- Uncertainty about long-term fit of major in Political Science

ACTION PLAN

- Recommend enrolling in a more interdisciplinary political studies major or electing a different first-year course
- Suggest attending first-year seminars or interdisciplinary courses to expose Joshua to different perspectives
- Encourage journalism, history, government, and social science courses to build foundational skills
- Help Joshua identify a mentor or peer tutor to help manage his academic load

FOLLOW UP PLAN

- Check in mid-semester to check progress in major and academic goals
- Offer to provide academic coaching services for first-year students majoring in Politics
- Recommend attendance at a first-year seminar series for students interested in interdisciplinary studies
