SUMMARY

Student is experiencing academic pressure due to a mix of science and engineering courses, but not fully understanding concepts in physics and astronomy.

KEY CONCERNS

- Low grades in science courses despite strong academic performance
- Feeling overwhelmed by overload and lacking understanding of relevant topics
- Difficulty identifying connections between course material and real-world applications
- Need for academic coaching or revision strategy talk with a knowledgeable individual

ACTION PLAN

- Schedule a meeting to review student's coursework and assessment grades
- Discuss the interdisciplinary nature of physics and astronomy courses
- Recommend review sessions focusing on concept mapping and application of scientific concepts
- Encourage use of academic terminology and real-world applications in assignments

FOLLOW UP PLAN

- After meeting, check progress on grades and understanding of science topics
- Revisit academic planning with a science advisor
- Encourage writing and presentation of scientific ideas to improve engagement
