SUMMARY

Justin is concerned about falling behind in his history of Europe course and is struggling to stay on track in his major.

KEY CONCERNS

- Low academic performance in history course (D in final exam last semester)
- Worries about graduation requirements and need to improve grades
- Excitement about thesis work but lack of structured academic support
- Recommendation to attend academic advising session

ACTION PLAN

- Schedule a meeting to review academic progress in history of Europe course and see how grades have improved
- Discuss the theoretical history option as a thesis topic with the student's advisor
- Recommend attendance at academic advising session to discuss grading strategies
- Encourage journaling and critical thinking skills to improve academic performance

FOLLOW UP PLAN

- After meeting, check on the student's progress in their thesis work and academic performance
- Encourage writing workshop to improve writing skills for history papers
- Revisit the history of Europe course and suggest ways to engage more deeply with the topic
- Help the student set achievable academic goals for the rest of the semester
