SUMMARY

Melissa is struggling with academic integrity in her history major and is open to discussing how to avoid a failing grade.

KEY CONCERNS

- Low academic performance in history of Europe course last semester
- Decision looming around major change
- Feeling discouraged and uncertain
- Intent to avoid a failing grade this semester

ACTION PLAN

- Recommend scheduling a confidential discussion about academic integrity in history courses
- Suggest attending a tutoring center for history students if necessary
- Encourage Melissa to explore alternative majors (e.g., English, social sciences, international relations)
- Help Melissa reframe her relationship with history as a personal and intellectual pursuit rather than a formal major

FOLLOW UP PLAN

- Check in after first semester grades to check if Melissa is still in history or if there's a change in interest
- Encourage follow-up meeting if academic performance improves in future semesters
- Refer Melissa to campus resources for interdisciplinary studies or non-major options
