SUMMARY

Haley is struggling with her religious identity and faith in a secular context, leading to feelings of disconnection and uncertainty.

KEY CONCERNS

- Losing interest in the religious aspect of her major and questioning her place
- Feeling alienated from the faith community and uncertain about future plans
- Seeking reconciliation with a world that seems hostile to her faith
- Lack of clarity about her identity and whether to continue in religious studies

ACTION PLAN

- Help Haley explore alternative faith pathways (e.g., secular spirituality, interfaith work, non-theistic beliefs)
- Connect Haley with student-led faith groups and academic programs that prioritize non-religious values
- Refer Haley to career services for exploring non-religious pathways in academia and beyond
- Encourage Haley to reflect on her identity and how to reconcile faith with a more open worldview

FOLLOW UP PLAN

- Check in after a semester or two to check if Haley is still interested in her faith or if any changes have occurred
- Suggest a final-year seminar on non-religious values or interfaith dialogue
- Encourage Haley to apply what she's learned to her post-graduation plans
